

Meadow Falls

By Carolyn Brown

This is a book about dealing with broken parent child relationships, family secrets and opening up to new romances.

Angela Marie has inherited a peanut farm after the death of her father, a father who showed her no love during his life. She is confused and very bitter after his death. After the funeral, her nanny, Mandy and Mandy’s great-granddaughter, Celeste move into the main house with her. These ladies help Angela Marie through the journey of finding herself and moving forward from her hurtful past. Mandy raised Angela Marie. Her love is basically all Angela Marie ever had. After Angela Marie finds pictures in her father’s room many questions are raised about his past. Now that Mandy has the beginning of dementia, Angela Marie and Celeste encourage Mandy to tell stories about when they were little girls growing up on the farm.

Celeste invites her retired Air Force friend, Devon to the farm to visit and for a possibility of a job.

As Angela Marie begins to put the pieces of her past together, she is also falling in love with someone on the farm.

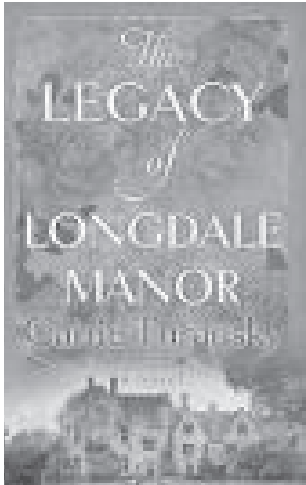

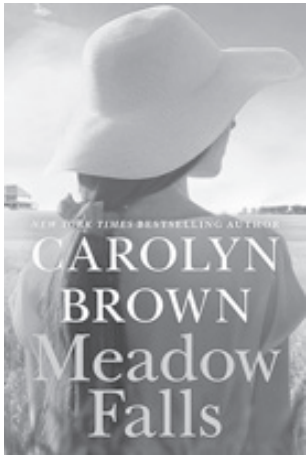

Brown’s characters are easy to relate to and the situations they face realistic. Both the plot and the dialogue flow smoothly. Her books are full of hope and love and Meadow Falls is no exception.

The Legacy of Longdale Manor

By Carrie Turansky

In 2012, art historian Gwen Morris travels to England’s Lake District to appraise the paintings and antiques of an old family friend, hoping to prove herself to her prestigious grandfather. While at Longdale Manor, she meets David Bradford—the owner’s handsome grandson—who is desperate to save the crumbling estate by turning it into a luxury hotel. When Gwen stumbles upon a one-hundred-year-old journal and intricately carved shepherd’s staff similar to one in a photo of her parents, she’s left searching for answers.

In 1912, after her father’s death, Charlotte Harper uncovers a painful family secret she can only confess to her journal. She and her family travel to the Lake District to stay on a sheep farm, hoping eventually to find a home with Charlotte’s grandfather at Longdale Manor, but old wounds and bitter regrets make it a difficult challenge. As Charlotte grows closer to shepherd Ian Storey and rebuilds her shattered faith, she must decide whether she will ever trust in love again.
